Late Telegrams.

EASTERN.

WASHINGTON, April 5th.

The following postal changes have been ordered for the Pacific Coast: Postmasters appointed—James R. McDonald at Graysonville, Stanislaus county, Cal.; A. Leonard at San Bonita, San Bonita county, Cal.; A. B. Caldwell, Spadra, Los Angeles county, Cal.; Nathaniel Holmes at Franktown, Washoe county, Nev.; George R. Hommersley at Camp Creek, Lane county, Nev.; C. T. Tracy at Yoncalla, Douglass county, Oregon.

Congressman Kendall of Nevada and Crounse of Nebraska had an argument to-day before the House Committee on Public Lands in advocacy of Kendall's bill providing for State taxation of lands heretofore granted Congress for railroads. Poppleton, as counsel for the Union Pacific Railroad Company argued against proposition. Crounses remarks had especial reference to the Union Pacific and Kendall's to the Central Pacific.

WASHINGTON, April 6th.

Sanborn appeared before the Ways and Means Committee to-day, but acting under advise of council refused to submit a written statement. Sanborn said he had received between $210,000 and $211,000 under his contract, of which he has probably paid $160,000 to others and had yet to pay men, still he paid $25,000 to $30,000 as counsel fees but nothing to Internal Revenue officers. He made his entire arrrngements with Boutwellin additions to contract obtained from Richardson while Boutwell was in Boston. Witness had no doubt Richardson knew perfectly what he was signing. Richardson said to-day that when he decides to retire from the Treasury he will notify the public.

Efforts are being made to form a combination in the Senate to defeat the inflationists. It is still uncertain, therefore, that the scheme will succeed for increasing the legal tender and bank note circulation each by four hundred millions. Unless accompanied by some plan looking toward a gradual contraction, Pacific Coast people here attribute Mitchell's uniform voting with the inflationssts to a desire to conciliate Morton, chairman of the Committee on Elections, in whose hands rest the memorials relative to Mitchell's case.

NEW YORK, April 5th.

The Board of Directors of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company at a meeting yesterday concluded that, in view of the unusual demand now made on their carrying capacity on the Pacific coast, to enter into a contract for the building of four new iron steamers of such capacity as to meet the increasing business. Of these new ships it is anticipated that two will be constructed by John Roach, the builder of the City of Pekin and others of the line. The remaining contracts will be awarded to other builders.

FOREIGN.

RAYONNE, April 5th.

The first active operations before Bellba since March 28th were resumed on the 3d of April with the bombardment of Abanto. Serrano is re-organizing nis forces and the carlists are strengthening their positions. Gen. Tristaly is reported to have captured a detachment of six hundred republicans near Cataf, forty-six miles from Barcelona. The surprise was complete, the republicans surrendering without firing a gun.

LONDON, April 6th.

Professor Goldwin Smith has a long letter in the News on home rule. He advocates general improvement of local institutions and giving Legislative power and administration of local affairs similar to those of American States.

Pacific Coast Dispatches.

SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6th.

E. B. Condon, photographer, yesterday. shot and instantly killed Charles Kockenroth in his gallery on Third street, then shot and killed himself. It is supposed the man had been rendered insane by reason of practical jokes and petty persecutions of Kockenrath, who worked in the gallery with him.

Shipping Wheat in Bulk.

It is estimated that California will export about 20,000,000 centals of wheat of this year's crop. To provide sacks for such a quantity will cost $4,000,000, all of which could be saved to the farmers if wheat could be safely shipped in bulk. The experiment of shipping in bulk has not yet been faily tried, but it should be without further delay. A correspondent of the Chronicle writing on this subject says: "The Grangers are now a strong and financially powerful body in this State, and it is their business to make the test. Let them purchase a thousand tons of wheat and ship it in bulk, so as to determine the matter before the grain crops of the next harvest year comes in. If the whole cargo were spoiled, the loss would not be felt amongst so many—a few dollars for each member—and the experiment would be well worth the expense. This is the only practical way to settle the matter."

The bill authorizing the Supreme Court to divide its sessions between the Capital and the Bay, was approved by the Governor and is now the law. This law will give Sacramento the Court in the Winter and San Francisco during the Summer.

COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER

TUESDAY.....APRIL 7,

GEOLOGICAL STRUCTURE OF LOS ANGELES VALLEY.

The valley is an old lake bed in with loose, rich soil. Imagine a lake being constantly supplied with water from three rivers, loose, rich earth washed into the lake from surrounding mountainsu unt earth averages about ten feet above water, and you have the geological condition of Los Angeles Valley. The sinking of artesian wells over an area of thirty miles in length by ten twenty in width, develops the fact that underneath this valley is a clay bed from ten to thirty feet in thickness and from thirty to fifty feet below the surface of the valley. The rim of clay bed comes to the surface of the ground around the outer edge of the valley, especially around the foot-hills. It also appears near the surface on the coast and in Wilmington harbor. The rim along the coast is low enough so that the water flowing into the ocean can flood the surface, for the surplus escapes over the rim into the ocean. Three rivers, Los Angeles, San Gabriel and Santa Anna, conveying large quantities of water all Summer from melting snow, and becoming immense torrents in winter when swollen by winter rains, empty over the upper rim of this clay, filling the clay basin even with the lower rim, and the surplus finding its way into the ocean. Many facts corroborate this theory. Next the coast there are immense numbers of fresh water swamps and bayous. At Wilmington when the tide is out, a barrel sunk in the road will at once fill with sweet water, the clay being so near the surface. In times of extreme Winter flood the large volume of water flowing into the basin does not escape fast enough and the country bordering on the coast is saturated to the surface with water, the low portions for a few days being covered with it. In a few days however the surplus has escaped into the ocean by drainage over the rim of the basin. It must be borne in mind that the loose soil along the coast forms an elevation and through this the water percolates in reaching the ocean.

The importance of this geological feature can hardly be overestimated. There is thus lying beneath the Los Angeles Valley at an average depth of say ten feet a body of water thirty miles in length by fifteen miles wide, with a depth of say twenty or thirty feet of water, held in a clay basin constantly fed by three rivers.

By proper scientific handling of this water supply, we need never feel the effect of drought on our permanent farming interests. Windmills and steam-pumps can irrigate the whole valley and when the irrigable land rises in value beyond a certain figure, then the lands now without irrigating streams will be irrigated by lifting the water from the subterranean lake to the surface. The investment required to do this is fifty per cent less than the cost of irrigable lands used for semi-tropical fruits.

The surface of the valley is an undulating plain terminating in the foothills and mountains around the valley On a large part of this plain the depth to the surface of the lake is about twelve to fifteen feet.

Another fact becomes quite certain. It is this: by keeping the surface of the ground well ploughed, pulverized and free from weeds, trees and vines will grow without irrigation. Water rises up from the surface of the lake through the soil to a point where the heat of the sun evoporates the water as fast as it rises. Place the corner of a clod in a cup of water, and you will see the water run through the whole clod. This point is generally three or four feet below the surface on uncultivated land or land on which is growth of vegetation. Where the soil is well pulverized and free from vegetation, it is from one to three inches.

The reason is apparent on a moment's reflection. Where the land is not ploughed deep there is a hard, close packed crust, caused by stock tramping the ground for centuries. This hard, close packed surface is a good conductor of the sun's heat. Just as solid brick will become hot with one end in the fire, whereas if the brick is crushed into lumps and one end of the pile placed in the fire, the other end of the pile will not become nearly so hot. A sponge will hold more water than a piece of wood, so the close packed surface will not hold as much moisture as the loose, porous soil. The sun therefore dries out the former much sooner.

Again, in the growth of weeds or grass the roots absorb the moisture, carry it up, making the green, juicy stalk and leaves, thus transferring the moisture from the ground to the vegetation. As it ripens, the moisture escapes from the vegetation into the air, leaving the ground exhausted of its Winter supply of moisture, and dry. The roots of trees and vines will run down into the ground from five to fifteen feet, thus reaching, if the surface is pulverized and free from weeds, soil that is perpetually moist. When trees are once thus rooted, no irrigation is needed.

In fact, vapor of water will rise fifty or a hundred feet through the soil and will be condensed night and day if the surface is kept in a loose, pulverized state.

Facts confirm our theory. Mr. McFadden, near Anaheim, has a fine bearing vineyard of six acres on soil where it is a hundred feet to water, Rev. Mr. Leehy, near Santa Anna, has an orange orchard growing without irrigation, where it is thirty feet to surface water. Dr. Hayward, near the same place has a variety of fruit trees growing without irrigation. Mr. C. E. White, seven miles below this city, where it is ten or twelve feet to water, has kept large fields moist to within one or two inches of the surface through the last dry year, by keeping the ground well stirred up and free from weeds. West of the railroad on the Mesa land, where it was fifteen feet to water, we saw the soil kept moist enough to sprout corn the whole Summer and Fall by deep ploughing. In Santa Clara Valley, near San Francisco, we know of large orchards and vineyards in the finest state of productiveness, where it has never been irrigated, and that on land where it is from twenty-five to 150 feet to water. The land however is well ploughed and frequently stirred. We are satisfied that irrigation will eventually be abandoned on large areas of land in this country where water is within say twenty or thirty feet of the surface, except where a coarse, loose gravel bed lies between the water and the surface.

PLANT TREES!

If there is one subject which, more than any other, deserves the attention of land-owners it is this: the importance of planting trees; not fruit trees alone, but trees of the varieties most valuable for timber. Every year sees the supply of timber in the mountains of California diminishing. The American race seems to have an inherent hostility to forests. Every boy seems born with an axe in his hand, and the father standing by saying, "Go my son; fell the trees!" The Eastern States are rapidly becoming denuded of their original forest growth. They are to-day, in the diminished rainfall, the increased and ever-inareasing severity of the Winters, the quick, disastrous rush of the Spring floods, feeling the retribution which the violated laws of nature inflict upon them. As our native timber is almost entirely confined to the mountain ranges, leaving the broad plains entirely bare, it would be difficult to predict how much the climate might be injured by cutting off the forests; certainly not so much as where the broad, mountainless States of the Mississippi Valley. Yet even the experience gained during the quarter of a century since cultivation practically began in California, shows clearly that our rainfall can be increased and rendered more certain by the planting of timber in the treeless valleys. Apart from the increase of the rain supply, there are other reasons even more potent for the planting and cultivation of timber trees. If every farmer were to surround his land by a narrow belt of trees, not more than one or two rods wide, the force of the strong, drying north winds, which do so much harm, would be broken. The increased yield of grain fields and fruit trees, thus sheltered, would more than repay the country for the time and labor expended upon the artificial forests. The cost of fuel is increasing each year; with his own trees, no farmer need buy any wood. Most important of all, however, is probably the item of the direct monied value of the timber so raised, for building and fencing, and for commercial purposes. Lumber must be had from somewhere. Our own supply is becoming rapidly exhausted. Each year the market must be furnished from a greater distance, involving a greater expense. There are now few fields for the employment of money offering greater inducements than this—the culture of trees for the value of the wood. Five years ago a tract of about forty acres was planted with blue gums in Alameda county. The owner is now thinning them out to allow room for full growth to the trees. The yield of timber in this thinning process is sufficient to repay all the expense of the five year's care and the use of capital. From this time on the return is clear profit, and each year with the increasing size of the trees, the timber becomes more valuable.

Plant trees! Acacias and the pepper do well on dry land. The blue gum needs rather more moisture; it grows anywhere on the open valley. This is in all probablity the most valuable tree that can be planted, as, in addition it is an exceedingly rapid grower. The locust, upon lands with plenty of moisture, can hardly be surpassed. It is a mistake to suppose that any great expense need be incurred in the culture of trees. The young trees need not be purchased at a nursery; any farmer can buy the seed or raise the plants himself. When one year old they can be transplanted to the spot where they are intended to remain. From that time for two or three years the same care that would be given to a corn-field is all they need. Do not lose time. Set the seed now and sprout it, so that by another Winter the trees can be set out.

MARRIED.

At the Galatin School-house on Sunday the 5th inst., by the Rev. Mr. Freeman of the Baptist Church, Mr. John H. Martin of Los Nietos and Miss Martha V. Shirley of Los Angeles.

[We congratulate our friend Mr. Martin not only because he has renounced the state of single blessedness, but also because he has been so fortunate as to secure so noble a girl as was Miss Shirley for a wife. A choice supply of cake found its way to this office from the happy couple.]

dec14 PRUDENT BEAUDRY.

Water is the all important [illegible] ern California. Let there be water and everything in the vegetable line springs up and grows with a growth unparalleled in other localities. Orange trees spring up with marvellous rapidity, and the spot becomes a little paradise under the manipulation of industry, wherever water can be had.

The hill lands have been delayed in their sale simply because the arrangements for water were insufficient. The time given for thar sale has consequently been extended for two months. A large reservoir capable of containing untold hundreds of thousands of gallons of water is now being constructed. An engine and pump is now on its way hither, which will raise 30,000 gallons of water per hour into the reservoir, more than is now consumed by the entire city of Los Angeles.

All lots must be sold previous to April 12th, for upon that date those that are left will be disposed of at public auction, by the popular auctioneer, Noyes. They will be sold on the installment plan, at his rooms in the Temple Block on Spring street; the first installment payable on the day of sale.

Fifteen thousand feet of pipe are now being laid in the streets, 8,000 feet of which are already in the ground, and a million-gallon reservoir is now being made to supply the lots with water.

The City Surveyor has been ordered to define the grades and lines of Olive, Charity and Bunker Hill avenues, from Hill to Hope; Second street and Temple street from Hill to Hope. This will bring these lands within easy reach of the business part of the city. The distance to the Court-house is less than it is to the Turner's Hall.

Mr. Beaudry being the owner by perfect and indisputable title, offers the following scheme believing that it supplies a felt want,

His various tracts have been surveyed, and plotted in lots of convenient size for residences, upwards of two hundred in number, and the maps, together with abstracts of title, are kept for public inspection at his office, opposite the Pico House.

Any person desiring to purchase can inspect the land, select his lot or lots, and acquire the same, if not previously taken up by another, upon the following terms, purchasers not being restricted to a single lot:

The purchaser or his successor to pay the fixed price of the land selected by him in equal monthly installments, as follows: On lots valued at $400 and upwards, but not to exceed $500, $15 per month; on those valued at $300 and less than $400, $10 per month. Payments in gold or currency and no interest demanded. For cash in hand, a reduction of fifteen per cent will be made.

The purchaser to have immediate possession upon payment of the first installment and on execution and delivery of contract.

The right of the purchasers may be assignable to him, and his assigns to succeed to all his privileges and liabilities; standing in all respects towards the vendor as an original obligor.

Purchasers shall not be restricted to the payment of the installments as above shown, but may make payments in advance, and on such payments he will allow one per cent per month, from the date of payment until said payment would become due.

Upon selection of a lot or lots by a purchaser and payment of the first installment with $5 in U. S. gold coin, as expenses on the document, Mr. Beaudry, with the purchaser, will execute and acknowledge a sealed agreement embodying the above conditions; and, upon full payment, according thereto, the undersigned will execute and deliver to the purchaser, or his lawful representatives, on demand, a good and sufficient and absolute deed of conveyance of the abstracted lands, in form of warranty against grantor, the grantee paying the cost of such deed.

The location is very desirable. All that has heretofore been lacking is water, and that want is now filled. Anywhere else, in as desirable location, lots readily command from $500 to $1,000, and even higher rates. This property is put at the astonishing low price of from $300 to $400. But this is not all. This may be paid in currency and a reduction of fifteen per cent will be made for cash in hand.

CODE COMMENTARIES

BY CHAS. LINDLEY,

Late Code Commissioner.

PART I. of this work is now ready for the profession. It contains:

I.—Disintegration and Integration of Legal Systems.
II.—Historic Glance at Codification.
III.—Practical Codification and Amendment.
IV.—Appendix. Letter to H. H. Haight and others—Future Treatment of the Codes.

Under the first head are briefly treated—The Philosophy of Law; The Science of Law; Common and Statute Law—their Flexibility and Rigidity; Fragmentary Expression of the Common Law; Effect of Political and Social Changes on Legal Systems.

Under the second head is contained a Historic Glance at Codification, including Roman, French, Spanish, Canadian and American. Thus far the work presents a clear, terse view of the subject, and brings the reader to the third head, Practical Codification, with his mind better prepared to appreciate what follows.

Under the third head, Practical Codification, are the sub-heads: Axiomatic Propositions; Preparation of the Act authorizing Codification; Requisite Qualification of Commissioners; Compensation; Time for the Performance of the Work; and Rules for Codification and Amendment. These rules, seventeen in number, are elaborated and illustrated by sections drawn from the Code.

The work has an eight page Appendix, in the form of a letter to H. H. Haight and others, touching the author's connection with the Code Commission and the causes of his resignation; touching also the future treatment of the Codes. The last is an important matter, and should engage the attention of every lawyer in the State. The author is evidently master of his subject, and has given to it an unsparing, analytical, demonstrative treatment. The work has come in a most opportune moment, containing, as it does, more important recommendations as to the mode of amending the Codes.

The work will be mailed, post paid, by SUMNER WHITNEY & CO., San Francisco, on receipt of price, $1 00. jan25 d&w

The new Mutual Aid Association Law.

Following is a copy of the new law regulating Mutual Aid Associations. It is not an official copy but is probably correct in its material points:

An act relating to Mutual Beneficial Relief Associations.

The People of the State of California represented in Senate and Assembly do enact as follows:

SEC. 1 Associations may be formed for the purpose of paying the nominee of any membsr a sum upon the death of any said member not exceeding three dollars for each member of such association. No such association shall exceed in number one thousand persons.

SEC. 2. Such Association shall be formed by filing a verified certificate in the office of the Clerk of the county in which the principal place of business shall be situated and filing a like certificate in the office of the Secritary of State. Such certificate shall state the general objects of the Association, its principal place of business, and the names of officers selected to hold office for the first three months, and shall be signed by at least three of them.

SEC. 3. Said Associations, upon the death of each member, may levy an assessment upon each member living at the time of the death, not exceeding three dollars for each member and collect the same and pay the same to the nominee of such deceased member, and may also provide for the payment of such annual payments of members as may be deemed best. Such annual assessments upon every member not to be raised above the annual assessment established at the time such association.

SEC. 4. Such Association by its name may sue and be sued, and may loan such funds as it may have on hand, and may own sufficient real estate for its business purposes, and such other real estate as it may be necessary to purchase on foreclosure of its mortgages, provide1 such real estate so obtained through foreclosure shall be sold and conveyed within five years from the day title is obtained unless the District Court of the proper district shall upon petition and good cause shown extend the time.

SEC. 5. Such association may make such by-laws, not inconsistent with the laws of this State, as may be necessary for its government and for the transaction of its business, and shall not be subject to the provisions of the general insurance laws.

SEC. 6. All associations heretofore formed for the objects contemplated in this act and now in operation, may avail themselvs of its provisions by filing the certificate provided for in section two, provided that such societies shall not have a greater number than three thousand members.

SEC. 7. This act shall take effect immediately.

Special Notices.

To the Afflicted.

Grateful not only for entire relief from terrible suffering of seven years standing but for a perfect cure of internal piles by an operation scarcely more painful than my daily sufferings before the operation, I feel it a duty I owe to those similarly afflicted to give this testimonial of the skillful and efficient treatment of Dr. J. H. Leal of Los Angeles. Dr. Leal's success is more highly appreciated from the fact that several of the prominent physians of Los Angeles had treated me without understanding my disease and of course without success. COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

TUESDAY..... APRIL 7, 1874.

CITY AND SUBURBS.

A lot of asphaltum formed part of the cargo of the Constantine yesterday.

Only one team left town yesterday for the interior; it was for San Bernardino.

The city clock stopped yesterday morning for a few hours, but it is running on time again now.

There have been no arrests for several days past, all being as quiet on the front as could be desired.

Business was very slack at the depot yesterday, there being only one hundred bars of bullion received for export.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce should make a special effort to be present at the semi-monthly meeting of the Chamber to-night.

The Board of Directors of the Los Angeles Printing Company met yesterday afternoon in the office of Lindley & Thompson to transact general business.

Five carloads of bullion were shipped to Wilmington yesterday, to be sent to San Francisco. This is rather a large shipment for one day.

The number of passengers for San Francisco yesterday per Constantine was unusually small. That is the way it should be; bring many people here, but take as few as possible away.

The steam boiler of Mr. Beaudry's mammoth pump was at the depot yesterday. It looks as though it could furnish steam enough to pump the whole river over the hill.

Eighteen tons of iron for the Spring Street Railroad arrived at the depot yesterday. This begins to look like business, and it won't be long before the whole thing will be completed and in full working order.

The addition that is being built to the U. S. Hotel is progressing finely, and will soon be well under way. Judging from the popularity of this hotel, Messmer will soon have to begin another addition.

The M. E. Church South will soon commence the erection of a church on their lot at the corner of Fort and Third streets. The situation is of itself a very good one, but it is still better from the fact that it will be on the line of the new horse railroad and easy of access.

The Templeton troupe left us on Sunday morning last to try their fortunes in other places. To-night they perform at Bakersfield, and will no doubt astonish the natives of that place with their wonderful little songstress, "Fay." They certainly are the best travelling company that ever yet came to our city.

The new bank building is progressing finely, the main part of the structure being almost entirely finished. The building when completed will be quite an improvement in our city. It would be a good idea if a lot of the one-story shanties on our business streets were torn down to give place to a few more such buildings as this will be.

The five hundred extra copies of the WEEKLY HERALD that were issued on Saturday last sold even better than we had expected. Out of the whole lot only a few copies are left, and those will doubtless be sold to-day. The price of the extras was so low and the matter so very interesting that they went off "like hot cakes."

An Eastern gentleman who called at our office yesterday to purchase some copies of the WEEKLY HERALD to send to his friends in the States, was greatly astonished when he saw that seven-foot bunch of rye we have on exhibition. He would hardly believe that it is a usual thing here, but he has only to go to Mr. Weed's place and he will see a whole field of such.

The books in our office show forty-two new subscribers to the HERALD during the last week. The people are finding out that we will keep them well posted as to what is being done in Los Angeles county, and are showing their appreciation of our work. Our press is fully able to turn out a still greater number of papers, so send in your names and you will be supplied.

Prof. Chaney will give a free lecture this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock at Leck's Hall. He will also exhibit a planetarium representing the sun in the center with the planets revolving around it at different distances and rates of speed, so that even a child may comprehend their movements. The lecture will be upon "Astronomy and Free Masonry." Collection taken to defray expenses.

A team belonging to one or our farmers took a notion to astonish the people on Spring street yesterday afternoon by going down that thoroughfare at full headway. No damage was done to the street, but the wagon came out rather demoralized. Moral: Take the trouble to hitch your teams to a post when you leave them, and they will be likely to give you very much less trouble.

As many of our business men would not pay their share to keep the water cart going when it was started a few days ago, it had to be drawn off; but we are now reaping the consequences, for the dust yesterday, which might have been wet down, spoiled considerable goods in some of the stores. A few cents per week paid to keep the cart going will be of many dollars benefit when we get a day like yesterday. Bring out your cart!

Turn Verein Hall was crowded last night by persons anxious to hear Professor Fowler lecture on Phrenology. The Professor delivered an able lecture and showed by his language that he fully understands his business as a phrenologist. The people of this city have now an opportunity to listen to one of the finest phrenologists that ever came to this State, and they will do well to attend his lecture to-night.

The ball given last night by the St. Patrick's Benevolent Society at their hall in Stearns' block passed off very pleasantly. The affair was gotten up in a quiet way for the pleasure of a small circle of friends, and none were admitted except such as were in every respect desirable. All present went in for having a good time of it, and they had it, too. The ladies were none of your insipid, sickly ones, but were genuine, honest damsels who liked to dance; and they showed their good sense by acting up to their ideas of what a social dance is for. Desmond's string band discoursed sweet music for the occasion, and seemed to fill the bill completely. Taking it altogether, the party was very enjoyable; one of those rare social parties where one can feel at home and just have a real good time.

Concert of the M. E. Sunday School.

The concert given by the scholars of the M. E. Sunday School in this city last Sunday evening passed off very pleasantly to both performers and audience. The attendance was very large, the church being filled to its utmost capacity. All of the exercises were very interesting, and did great credit to the teachers who trained the pupils in their respective parts, as well as to the pupils themselves.

The entertainment was begun by a chorus from the school, which was sung in a very pleasing manner. Eddie Bradley did great credit to himself as a youthful declaimer by his rendering of the piece, "Indian Corn." Carrie Flanders next delighted the audience by her excellent delivery of the beautiful little poem, "Be Careful." Miss J. Shannon's select reading, "Man was made to Mourn," reflected much credit on herself for the excellence of her pronunciation. "Group of Happy Children," with song, was a very good selection and took well with the audience. Jessie Gibson recited in a neat way the poem, "Christ and the Little Ones." Eight little girls next followed in the dialogue and recitation, "Flowers." This was one of the best exercises of the evening, and it deserves considerable praise. The next thing on the programme was another delightful chorus by the whole school, and it was sung with great spirit and effect. Lillie Spencer was very good in her recitation of "Beauty." Helen Widney recited in an excellent manner the beautiful little poem, "Golden Hair." Miss Nettie Stewart just brought down the house by her select reading, "Contentment;" but her merits as a reader are too well known to need much comment from us; she always does first-rate in her readings. The dialogue, with song, the "Temperance Pledge," was very well produced, all of the participants seeming to enter fully into the spirit of the piece. That beautiful poem, "Song of Faith," was rendered in the very best manner possible by Mary Green and Mary Van Doren, both seeming to fully understand the sentiment of the piece and to recite it according to the real meaning of the author. Miss P. Edwards next favored the audience with the song, "Bright Things can Never Die," doing herself great credit by the remarkably sweet and musical tones of her voice. The piece itself is a very fine one, but it takes such a voice as Miss Edwards possesses to do it anything like justice. Emma Bradley's recitation was very good, and showed a careful training by the way she delivered it. The comic recitation, "Prayer and Potatoes," by Charlie Bell, so "took" the audience as to make them go well down into their pockets when the collection plate was passed, just after he was done. After another chorus by the school the concert ended, and all went home expressing great comendation on all of the exercises of the evening.

Herald Publishing Company.

The following report shows that the Herald Publishing Company is rapidly placing its business on a good foundation. If the people continue to support the paper as earnestly as in the past, it will certainly more than repay the support in the good it will do the community:

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Herald Publishing and Printing Company, April 6, 1874, the business manager pro tem, R. M. Widney, made a financial report showing that since taking the management on the 27th ult. the expenses had been reduced $288 per month; the advertisements and subscription had increased $122 per month, making a difference of $410 in favor of the company. That the total income per month was $1,612, the expenditures $1,597. That for the month of April the expenses would be diminished about $300 and the receipts increased over $150.

On motion of Mr. Garey a vote of thanks was tendered Judge Widney for his management of the business and for editing the HERALD during the past week.

I. W. LORD, Secretary.

Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

As the commercial interests of a community increase in number and extent, it becomes a matter of necessity to have an official voice for those interests. Disorganized and without unity, the interests are the prey of all corporations or individuals who seek to plunder. United and acting together a power is exerted the influence of which is felt even in our National Capital. Our Chamber of Commerce has wielded such an influence. It has given prominence and standing to our interests. Let it be supported by the people. Let no nigardly spirit possess our merchants, but supply it with means to carry out its good work. To-night it meets; there should be a good and prompt attendance.

There surely was variety enough in the shape of entertainments in our city last night. The lectures by Professor Fowler and by Mr. Ayers and the ball of the Saint Patrick Benevolent Society all were going on at the same time. We would much prefer to have them come at different times, for it was impossible for us to stay very long at any one of them, much as we desired to do so.

THE CITRON.

The following reply to our article on on the citron is more than welcome. The true spirit of progress is to discuss such matters and bring before the people the facts:

EDITORS HERALD: In reply a request contained in a late issue of your excellent journal, I would beg leave to submit an extract taken in substance from the "New American Cyclop Ædin," edited by Chas. A. Dana and George Ripley. This tree (citrus medica, Linn.), which belongs to the same genus as the lime, lemon, shaddock and orange trees, attains in all its wild state to a highth of about eight feet, and is erect and prickly with long reclining branches. Its leaves are alternate and pale green; its pelioles are naked and its flowers forty-androus, and externally purple; and its fruit is ovate, about six inches long, furrowed with a protuberance at the tip, and with two rinds—the outer a thin, greenish yellow, with numberless miliary glands full of a most fragrant oil, and the inner thick, fungus and white. The trees of this genus, one of the most brilliant of fruit-bearing trees, are indigenous in the Oriental, and are supposed to be alluded to in the "golden apples" which the Greeks attributed to the gardens of Hesperides. There is however no evidence that any of them were cultivated either by the Geeks or earlier Romans. The citron tree, the most beautiful of them, and the first that were introduced into Europe, was obtained from Medea and perhaps Assyria and was cultivated in Italy by Palladius in the 2d century A. D. In the Oriental it is constantly in blossom [doubtless it is constantly in blossom here, but your correspondent has never had occasion to examine this fact, he can only assert that such is the fact with the lime tree], flowers and fruit always hanging upon the trees together. At Nice, Genoa and Naples, and also in the West Indies, it endures the open air; but at Florence and Milan it requires protection in the Winter, and in more northern climates it is cultivated in conservatories. Observe the fact that while this tree must be protected from Winter in Florance and Milan, here in the city of Los Angeles it grows in the open air, and as is well known, certainly one species grows to an enormous size.

The editors go on to say: "In China there is a splendid variety, with large and solid fruit, divided at the end into five distinct lobes, whence it is called by the Chinese fingered citron. It is kept for its agreeable fragrance on fine porcelain dishes in sitting-rooms. The citron is a somewhat acid fruit, rarely eaten raw, and highly valued for its very fragrant rind, which by being preserved in sugar becomes a delicate sweetmeat. From the outside of the fruit and leaves the oil of citron is prepared; the pulp furnishes citric acid; the seeds are very bitter and tonic, and the bark of the root is a febrifuge. Twelve well known varieties of citron are growing in Italy, about twenty in France and six in England. Seventeen varieties are described and figured and the methods of their culture minutely given in Risso's Histoire Naturelle des Orangero (Paris, 1818). Possibly we have not been preparing the very fine, large species we have have here correctly, so as to avoid the citric acid of the pulp and the great bitterness of the seed. And again, we possibly may have an inferior variety. Now, we think if our Trustees and President of the Public Library of the city, as soon as they can obtain the means, will send for a series of horticultural works, including some later edition of Risso's, or some other elaborate author of the entire citron family, that they will have taken a step that will meet with unanimous approval. The suggestion is made because we are, in the city more especially, very greatly interested in horticulture and viniculture. If the Common Council would see fit to request our energetic and thoroughgoing Mayor to address the Agricultural Bureau at Washington for seeds, cuttings, etc., we have no doubt much good would result therefrom. W.

The Library Meeting.

The Board of Trustees of the Library Association held a regular meeting last evening for the discussion and consideration of the draft of an ordinance prepared by the committee appointed for that purpose for carrying into effect the provisions of the law for the establishment of a Public Library in this city. The draft of the ordinance was approved with some slight amendments, and by a unanimous vote Hon. J. R. McConnell, Chairman of said Committee, was requested to present the same to the Common Council at its next meeting and personally urge its adoption. After the adjournment of the meeting of the Board a meeting of the Library Association was held, Judge Sepulveda presiding, and on motion was adjourned to the first Monday in May.

Keep it Moving.

To-day a gentleman came into the HERALD office to discuss the question of starting a coal-yard, as suggested in our recent article. The coal-yard will soon be one of the important features os Los Angeles.

We call attention to the well-written article on the cultivation of the citron. The communication back and forth is an important element in the work of the HERALD.

Temperance Lecture.

J. J. Ayres delivered a lecture on intemperance last night at the Good Templars' Hall. He presented the moral and humanitarian aspect of the question in an effective style. His delivery was remarkably clear, and the audience signally appreciated his elocution as well as his method of treating the subject. At the close of the lecture the speaker was complimented by a vote of thanks from the audience.

Change of School Trustee Election Day.

The following note has been received by George H. Peck, Superintendent of the schools of this county:

Please inform all parties interested that the election of School Trustees has been changed from the last Saturday in April to the last Saturday in June. Respectfully,

HENRY N. BOLANDER,
State Sup't Public Instruction.
April 2, 1874.

Mrs. Jenks and children left per steamer Orizaba on Sunday last for her old home in Michigan. Quite a number of friends went to Wilmington to see them off and bid them bon voyage. Mrs. Stephens also accompanied the family to San Francisco.

Prof. Fowler lectures in Turn Verein Hall on "Love and Marriage" this evening as per printed announcement, and not as per his verbal announcement in his lecture.

A drunk got a little too lively at the Bank Exchange last night and was politely escorted to the door. He did not like the exchange.
